Presents

Practical Functional Assessment and Treatment of Problem Behaviour of Persons with Autism or Intellectual Disabilities

Dr. Gregory P. Hanley, Ph. D., BCBA-D

Date/Time

September 29, 2016

9 am to 4:30 pm

(registration 8:30 am)

A number of myths regarding the functional assessment and treatment development process, which appear to be pervasive within different behaviour-analytic research and practice communities, will be reviewed in the context of an attempt to develop new knowledge regarding the functional assessment and treatment development process. Frequently described obstacles to implementing a critical aspect of the functional assessment process, the functional analysis, will be reviewed in the context of solutions for overcoming them. Attendees will have the opportunity to discuss and design fast, safe, and effective functional analyses and generalizable, socially validated, function-based treatments for the persons they serve.
